

CALL

ANTIPODA

Open Topic

Contemporary Doctoral Research in Latin America and the Caribbean

Submission
July 2 - August 2, 2024

CALL FOR PAPERS – OPEN TOPIC: CONTEMPORARY DOCTORAL RESEARCH IN LATIN AMERICA AND THE CARIBBEAN

Antípoda. Revista de Antropología y Arqueología welcomes the academic community to submit original articles, visual pieces, and reviews covering a range of topics. These contributions should offer critical analyses of sociocultural, methodological, and theoretical themes that are pertinent to anthropology, archaeology, the various subfields of these disciplines, and other areas within the social and human sciences. These submissions must engage in dialogue with the fields of anthropology and archaeology. The submission period will be open from July 2 to August 2, 2024. Article proposals and visual articles should be submitted through the platform at <https://gestionrevistas.uniandes.edu.co/index.php/antipoda/login>; while reviews can be sent to antipoda@uniandes.edu.co. Texts are accepted in Spanish, English, and Portuguese. For complete details on the editorial process and essential author guidelines, please visit: <https://revistas.uniandes.edu.co/index.php/antipoda/editorial-policy>

On this occasion, Antípoda. Revista de Antropología y Arqueología issues a special call to researchers who have completed their doctorate in some of the mentioned areas of study across Latin America and the Caribbean between 2020 and 2023. This call is intended to shed light on and approach contemporary issues being analyzed in this geographical region. This region embodies diverse understandings of reality, the result of heterogeneous sociocultural and historical dynamics that intersect in each of the countries it comprises.

The submissions are expected to address relevant analytical problems or challenges based on specific and current case studies, utilizing various theoretical, methodological, and conceptual approaches. They should always be in ongoing dialogue with similar discussions taking place throughout the region.

This open-topic call is designed to encourage original, critical, and rigorous research conducted by the emerging generation of researchers and to foster the creation of transnational academic networks that contribute to a broader understanding of our realities and to the promotion of open knowledge production and dissemination that extends beyond educational institutions. This approach underscores the collaborative nature of the social and human sciences in their engagement with the communities and societies from which they emerge.

Requirements

- You must have completed your doctoral degree between 2020 and 2023.
- Please submit a copy of your graduation certificate or diploma in either PDF or JPG format.
- Ensure that your article aligns with the editorial policies of Antípoda. Revista de Antropología y Arqueología:
<https://revistas.uniandes.edu.co/index.php/antipoda/editorial-policy>
- Anonymize your article to omit author name(s), affiliated institution, and any information that could potentially identify the author.
- Include a separate file with the author's details: name, the degree obtained (including program name), the institution that awarded the degree, nationality or country of residence, institutional affiliation (including the month and year of entry), email address, and Orcid.